The Conference

The European cosmetic market continues to be a world leader with a market size almost doubling the US and Asia regions. Despite the difficulties of the economic climate, one thing that does remain constant is the purchasing of cosmetics and personal care products. The demand for cosmetics products is on the rise making the market extremely competitive with innovative product development strategies being designed to set companies one step ahead.

Through extensive industry research and the aid of our organising committee, we have put together this two day programme that brings forth all aspects of formulation keeping the industry updated with market outlooks, sector-related trends, regulatory legislations, guidelines on overcoming practical challenges and scientific innovations shaping new product development.

Confirmed Topics for Discussion

- Cosmetics Market Outlook
- Raw Material Focus: Challenges & Opportunities
- Regulatory Compliance, Claims & Product Safety
- Exploring Trends Across the Beauty Sector
- Innovations Zone: The Future of Formulation
- Sustainability & Natural Cosmetics Products
- Breakthrough In Natural Cosmetics Formulation
- Advancements in Cosmetic Technology

Who Will Attend?

Cosmetic product / ingredient formulators, product development scientists, product technologists, raw material suppliers, regulatory affairs specialists, personal care brand owners, natural cosmetic / ingredient producers, consultants, cosmetic associations, equity firms and individuals interested in growing in the cosmetic business.

Programme Organising Committee

Sylvie Cupferman, International Director Corporate Microbiology Department, L’Oréal Paris
